ACT. I. SCENE I.

A Street in VENICE.

Enter Rodorigo and Iago.

RODORIGO.

Tush, never tell me, I take it much unkindly, That thou, Iago, who hast had my purse, As if the strings were thine, shouldst know of this—Iago. But you'll not hear me.

If ever I did dream of fuch a matter, abhor me.

Rad. Thou told'ft me, thou didft hold him in thy hate.

Iago. Despise me,

If I do not. Three Great ones of the city,
In personal suit to make me his lieutenant,
Off-cap'd to him: and, by the faith of man,
I know my price, I'm worth no worse a Place.
But he, as loving his own pride and purpose,
Evades them with a bombast circumstance,
Horribly stuft with epithets of war,
And, in conclusion,

Non-fuits my mediators. Certes, fays he, I have already chose my officer.

And what was he?

That never fet a squadron in the sield, 150 Nor the division of a battle knows

More than a spinster; but the bookish theoriek,

Wherein the toged consuls can propose

As masterly as he; meer prattle, without practice,

Is all his soldiership—he had th' election;

And I, of whom his eyes had seen the proof

At Rhodes, at Cyprus, and on other grounds

Christian and heathen, must be let and calm'd

By Debitor and Creditor, this Counter-caster;

He, in good time, must his lieutenant be,

And I (God bless the mark!) his Moorship's Ancient.

And I (God bless the mark!) his Moorship's Ancient. Rod. By Heav'n, I rather would have been his hang-

Iago. But there's no remedy, 'tis the curse of fervice;

Preferment goes by letter and affection,
Not (as of old) gradation, where each fecond
Stood heir to th' first. Now, Sir, be judge your self,
If I in any just term am assign'd
To love the Moor.

Rod. I would not follow him then.

Iago. O Sir, content you;
I follow him to ferve my turn upon him.
We cannot all be masters, nor all masters
Cannot be truly follow'd. You shall mark
Many a duteous and knee-crooking knave,
That, doting on his own obsequious bondage,
Wears out his time, much like his master's ass,
For nought but provender; and, when he's old,
cashier'd;

Whip me such honest knaves—Others there are,
Who, trimm'd in forms and visages of duty,
Keep yet their hearts attending on themselves;
And, throwing but shows of service on their lords,
Well thrive by them; and when they've lin'd their coats,

Do themselves homage. These folks have some foul,

And such a one do I profess my self. It is as sure as you are Rodorigo, Were I the Moor, I would not be lago:

In

In following him, I follow but my felf,
Heav'n is my judge, not I, for love and duty:
But, feeming fo, for my peculiar end:
For when my outward action doth demonstrate
The native act and figure of my heart
In compliment extern, 'tis not long after
But I will wear my heart upon my fleeve,
For daws to peck at; I'm not what I feem.

Rod. What a full fortune does the thick-lips owe,

If he can carry her thus?

lago. Call up her father,
Rouse him, make after him, poison his delight;
Proclaim him in the streets, incense her kinsmen;
And tho' he in a fertile climate dwell,
Plague him with slies; tho' that his joy be joy,
Yet throw such changes of vexation on't,
As it may lose some colour.

Rod. Here is her father's house, I'll call aloud.

Lago. Do, with like timorous accent, and dire yell,

As when, by night and negligence, the fire

Is spread in populous cities."

Rod. What, ho! Brabantio! Signior Brabantio! ho. Iago. Awake! what, ho! Brabantio! ho! thieves!

Look to your house, your daughter and your bags: Thieves! thieves!

SCENE II.

Brabantio appears above, at a window.

Bra. What is the reason of this terrible summons? What is the matter there?

Rod. Signior, is all your family within?

Iago. Are all doors lock'd?

Bra. Why? wherefore ask you this?

Iago. Zounds! Sir, you're robb'd: for shame, put

Your heart is burst, you have lost half your soul: Ev'n now, ev'n very now, an old black ram Is tupping your white ewe. Arise, arise, Awake the snorting citizens with the bell,

A 3

Or elfe the Devil will make a grandfire of you. Arise, I say.

Bra. What, have you lost your wit?

Rod. Most reverend fignior, do you know my voice?

Bra. Not I; what are you? Rod. My name is Rodorigo.

Bra. The worse welcome;

I've charg'd thee not to haunt about my doors : In honest plainness thou hast heard me fay, My daughter's not for thee. And now in madness, Being full of supper and distemp'ring draughts, Upon malicious bravery dost thou come To fart my quiet.

Rod. Sir, Sir, Sir-

Bra. But thou must needs be sure, My spirit and my place have in their power To make this bitter to thee.

Rod. Patience, good Sir.

Bra. What tell'st thou me of robbing? this is Venice :

My house is not a grange. Rod. Most grave Brabantio,

In fimple and pure foul, I come to you.

lago. Zounds! Sir, you are one of those that will not ferve God, if the Devil bid you. Because we come to do you service, you think we are rushans; you'll have your daughter covered with a Barbary horse, you'll have your nephews neigh to you; you'll have coursers for cousins, and gennets for germanes.

Bra. What prophane wretch art thou?

lago. I am one, Sir, that comes to tell you, your daughter and the Moor are now making the beaft with two backs.

Bra. Thou art a villain. lago. You are a fenator.

Bra. This thou shalt answer. I know thee; Ro-

At this odd even and dull watch o' th' night, Transported with no worse nor better guard, But with a knave of hire, a Gundalier, To the gross clasps of a lascivious Moor: If this be known to you, and your allowance, We then have done you bold and fawcy wrongs. But if you know not this, my manners tell me, We have your wrong rebuke. Do not believe, That from the sense of all civility I thus would play, and trifle with your reverence. Your daughter, if you have not given her leave, I say again, hath made a gross revolt; Tying her duty, beauty, wit and fortunes To an extravagant and wheeling stranger, Of here and every where; straight satisfie your self, If she be in her chamber, or your house, Let loofe on me the justice of the State For thus deluding you.

Bra. Strike on the tinder, ho!

Give me a taper;—call up all my people;—

This accident is not unlike my Dream,

Belief of it oppresses me already.

Light, I fay, light!

Iago. Farewel; for I must leave you.

It seems not meet, nor wholsome to my place,
To be produc'd (as, if I stay, I shall)
Against the Moor. For I do know, the State,
However this may gall him with some check,
Cannot with safety cast him. For he's embark'd
With such loud reason to the Cyprus' wars,
Which ev'n now stand in act, that, for their souls,
Another of his sadom they have none,
To lead their business. In which regard,
Tho' I do hate him as I do hell's pains,
Yet, for necessity of present life,
I must shew out a stag and sign of love:
(Which is, indeed, but sign.) That you may surely find him,

Lead to the Sagittary the raised search; And there will I be with him. So, sarewel. [Exit.

SCENE III.

Enter Brabantio, and servants with torches,

Bra. It is too true an evil. Gone she is;
And what's to come of my despited time,
Is nought but bitterness. Now, Rodorigo,
Where didst thou see her? oh unhappy girl!
With the Moor, saidst thou? who would be a father?
How didst thou know 'twas she? oh, she deceives me
Past thought ——What said she to you? get more tapers——

Raife all my kindred—are they married, think you?

Rod. Truly, I think, they are.

Bra. O heaven! how gat she out?

Oh treason of my blood!

Fathers, from hence trust not your daughter's minds By what you see them act. Are there not charms, By which the property of youth and maidhood May be abus'd? have you not read, Rodorigo, Of some such thing?

Rod. Yes, Sir, I have, indeed.

Bra. Call up my brother: oh, 'would you had had her;

Some one way, fome another—Do you know Where we may apprehend her and the Moor?

Rod. I think, I can discover him, if you please

To get good guard, and go along with me.

Bra. Pray you, lead on. At ev'ry house I'll call, I may command at most; get weapons, hoa! And raise some special officers of might: On, good Rodorigo, I'll deserve your pains. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV.

Changes to another STREET, before the Sagittary.

Enter Othello, Iago, and attendants with Torches.

Iago. Tho' in the trade of war I have flain men,
Yet do I hold it very fluff o' th' conscience
To do no contriv'd murther: I lack iniquity
Sometimes to do me service—Nine or ten times

I thought to've jerk'd him here under the ribs.

Oth.

Oth. It's better as it is.

Iago. Nay, but he prated,
And spoke such scurvy and provoking terms
Against your honour;
That, with the little godliness I have,
I did full hard forbear him. But I pray, Sir,
Are you sast married? for, be sure of this,
That the Magnissco is much belov'd,
And hath in his effect a voice potential
As double as the Duke's: he will divorce you,
Or put upon you what restraint or grievance
The law (with all his might t'enforce it on)

Will give him cable.

Oth. Let him do his fpight:

My fervices, which I have done the Signiory,
Shall out-tongue his complaints. 'Tis yet to know,
(Which, when I know that boasting is an honour,
I shall promulgate) I fetch my Life and Being
From men of royal siege; and my demerits
May speak, unbonnetting, to as proud a fortune
As this that I have reach'd. For know, Iago,
But that I love the gentle Desdemona,
I would not my unhoused free condition
Put into circumscription and confine, (der?
For the sea's worth. But look! what lights come yon-

SCENE V.

Enter Cassio, with torches.

Iago. Those are the raised father, and his friends: You were best go in.

Oth. Not I: I must be found.

My parts, my title and my perfect Soul Shall manifest me rightly. Is it they?

Iago. By Janus, I think, no.

Oth. The Servants of the Duke, and my lieutenant: The goodness of the night upon you, friends! What is the news?

Caf. The Duke does greet you, General; And he requires your haste, post-haste, appearance, Ev'n on the instant.

Oth. What is the matter, think you?

A 5

Caf.

Cas. Something from Cyprus, as I may divine:
It is a business of some heat. The Gallies
Have sent a dozen sequent messengers
This very night, at one another's heels:
And many of the consuls, rais'd and met,
Are at the Duke's already. You have been hotly call'd for,

When, being not at your lodging to be found, The Senate sent above three several quests, To search you out.

Oth. 'Tis well I am found by you:

I will but spend a word here in the house,

And go with you. [Exit Othello. Caf. Ancient, what makes he here? (rack;

Iago. Faith, he to-night hath boarded a land-car-

If it prove lawful prize, he's made for ever.

Caf. I do not understand.

Iago. He's married. Caf. To whom?

Iago. Marry to Come, Captain, will you go?

Oth. Have with you.

Caf. Here comes another Troop to feek for your

SCENE VI.

Enter Brabantio, Rodorigo, with officers and torches.

Iago. It is Brabantio: General, be advis'd; He comes to bad intent.

Oth. Holla! stand there.

Rod. Signior, it is the Moor. Bra. Down with him, thief!

Oth. Keep up your bright fwords, for the dew will ruft 'em.

Good Signior, you shall more command with years, Then with your weapons.

Bra. O thou foul thief! where hast thou stow'd my daughter?

Damn'd as thou art, thou hast enchanted her; For I'll refer me to all things of sense, If she in chains of magick were not bound,

Whether a maid, fo tender, fair, and happy, So opposite to marriage, that she shunn'd The wealthy culled darlings of our nation, Would ever have, t'incur a general mock, Run from her guardage to the footy bosom Of fuch a thing as thou, to fear, not to delight? Judge me the world, if 'tis not gross in sense, That thou hast practis'd on her with foul charms, Abus'd her delicate youth with drugs or minerals, That weaken Notion .- I'll have't disputed on; 'Tis probable, and palpable to thinking. I therefore apprehend and do attach thee For an abuser of the world, a practifer Of arts inhibited, and out of warrant; Lay hold upon him; if he do refift, Subdue him at his peril.

Oth. Hold your hands, Both you of my inclining, and the rest. Were it my cue to fight, I should have known it. Without a prompter. Where will you I go To answer this your charge?

Bra. To prison, till fit time Of law, and course of direct session, Call thee to answer.

Oth. What if I do obey? How may the Duke be therewith satisfied, Whose messengers are here about my side, Upon some present business of the State, To bring me to him?

Offi. True, most worthy fignior, The Duke's in Council; and your noble felf, I'm sure, is sent for.

Bra. How! the Duke in Council?
In this time of the night? bring him away;
Mine's not an idle cause. The Duke himself,
Or any of my brothers of the State,
Cannot but feel this wrong, as 'twere their own;
For if such actions may have passage free,
Bond-slaves, and Pagans, shall our Statesmen be.

SCENE VII.

Changes to the Senate-House.

Duke and Senators, fet at a table with lights, and attendants.

Duke. There is no composition in these news, That gives them credit.

1 Sen. Indeed they're disproportion'd; My letters say, a hundred and seven Gallies.

Duke. And mine, a hundred and forty.

2 Sen. And mine, two hundred; But though they jump not on a just account, (As in these cases, where the aim reports, 'Tis oft with diff'rence;) yet do they all confirm A Turkish sleet, and bearing up to Cyprus.

Duke. Nay, it is possible enough to judgment; I do not so secure me in the error, But the main article I do approve

In fearful sense.

Offi. A messenger from the Gallies. Duke. Now!—what's the business?

Sail. The Turkish preparation makes for Rhodes,

So was I bid report here to the State.

Duke. How fay you by this change?

I Sen. This cannot be,

By no affay of reason. 'Tis a pageant,

To keep us in salse gaze; when we consider

Th' importancy of Cyprus to the Turk,

And let our selves again but understand,

That as it more concerns the Turk than Rhodes,

So may he with more facile question bear it;

For that it stands not in such warlike brace,

But altogether lacks th' abilities

That Rhodes is dres'd in. If we make thought of this,

We must not think the Turk is so unskilful,

To leave that latest, which concerns him first;

Neglecting an attempt of ease and gain,

To wake, and wage, a danger profitles.

Duke.

Duke. Nay, in all confidence, he's not for Rhodes. Offi. Here is more news.

Enter a Meffenger.

Mess. The Ottomites, (reverend and gracious,) Steering with due course toward the isle of Rhodes, Have there injoin'd them with an after-sleet

I Sen. Ay, fo I thought; how many, as you guess? Mess. Of thirty fail; and now they do re-stem Their backward course, bearing with frank appearance Their purposes toward Cyprus. Signior Montano, Your trusty and most valiant Servitor, With his free duty, recommends you thus, And prays you to believe him.

Duke. 'Tis certain then for Cyprus: Marcus Luccices,

Is he not here in town?

1 Sen. He's now in Florence. (patch. Duke. Write from us, to him, post, post-haste, dif1. Sen. Here comes Brabantio, and the valiant Moor.

SCENE VIII.

To them, enter Brabantio, Othello, Cassio, Iago, Rodorigo, and Officers.

Duke. Valiant Othello, we must straight employ you, Against the general enemy Ottoman.

I did not see you; welcome, gentle signior: [To Brab. We lack'd your counsel, and your help to night.

Bra. So did I yours; good your Grace, pardon me; Neither my place, nor aught I heard of business, Hath rais'd me from my bed; nor doth the general Take hold on me: For my particular grief Is of so flood-gate and o'er-bearing nature, That it ingluts and swallows other forrows, And yet is still itself.

Duke. Why? what's the matter?

Bra. My daughter! oh, my daughter!

Sen. Dead ?-

Bra. To me;

She is abus'd, stolen from me, and corrupted
By spells and medicines, bought of mountebanks;
For nature so preposterously to err,
(Being not deficient, blind, or lame of sense,)
Sans Witchcrast could not—

Duke.

Duke. Whoe'er he be, that in this foul proceeding Hath thus beguil'd your daughter of herself, And you of her, the bloody book of law You shall your self read in the bitter letter, After your own sense; yea, though our proper Son Stood in your action.

Bra. Humbly I thank your Grace. Here is the man, this Moor, whom now, it feems, Your special mandate, for the State-affairs, Hath hither brought.

All. We're very forry for't.

Duke. What in your own part can you say to this?

Bra. Nothing, but this is fo.

Oth. Most potent, grave, and reverend figniors, My very noble and approv'd good mafters; That I have ta'en away this old man's daughter, It is most true; true, I have married her; The very head and front of my offending Hath this extent; no more. Rude am I in my speech, And little blefs'd with the fet phrase of peace; For fince these arms of mine had seven years' Pith, 'Till now, fome nine moons wasted, they have us'd. Their dearest action in the tented field; And little of this great world can I speak, More than pertains to feats of broils and battle; And therefore little shall I grace my cause, In speaking for my self. Yet, by your patience, I will a round unvarnish'd tale deliver, Of my whole course of love; what drugs, what charms, What conjuration, and what mighty magick, (For fuch proceeding I am charg'd withal,) I won his daughter with.

Bra. A maiden, never bold;
Of spirit so still and quiet, that her motion
Blush'd at itself; and she, in spight of nature,
Of years, of country, credit, every thing,
To fall in love with what she fear'd to look on
It is a judgment maim'd, and most impersect,
That will confess, persection so could err
Against all rules of nature; and must be driven
To find out practices of cunning hell,

Duke. To vouch this, is no proof, Without more certain and more overt test, Than these thin habits and poor likelyhoods Of modern seeming do prefer against him.

Did you by indirect and forced courses
Subdue and poison this young maid's affections?
Or came it by request, and such fair question
As soul to soul affordeth?

Oth. I befeech you, Send for the lady to the Sagittary, And let her speak of me before her father; If you do find me foul in her report, The Trust, the Office, I do hold of you, Not only take away, but let your Sentence: Even fall upon my life.

Duke. Fetch Desdemona hither.

Oth. Ancient, conduct them, you best know the place. [Exit Iago.]

And till she come, as truly as to heav'n I do confess the vices of my blood, So justly to your grave ears I'll present How I did thrive in this fair lady's love, And she in mine.

Duke. Say it, Othello.

Oth. Her father lov'd me, oft invited me;
Still question'd me the story of my life,
From year to year; the battles, sieges, fortunes,
That I have past.
I ran it through, e'en from my boyish days,
To th' very moment that he bad me tell it:
Wherein I spoke of most disastrous chances,
Of moving accidents by slood and sield;
Of hair-breadth scapes in th' imminent deadly breach:
Of being taken by the insolent foe,
And sold to slavery; of my redemption thence,
And with it, all my travel's history:

Wherein of antres vast, and defarts idle, Rough quarries, rocks, and hills, whose heads touch It was my hent to fpeak; fuch was the process; And of the Cannibals that each other eat. The Anthropophagi; and men whose heads Do grow beneath their shoulders. All these to hear Would Defdemona feriously incline; But still the house-affairs would draw her thence. Which even as she could with haste dispatch, She'd come again, and with a greedy ear Devour up my discourse: which I observing, Took once a pliant hour, and found good means To draw from her a prayer of earnest heart, That I would all my pilgrimage dilate; Whereof by parcels fhe had something heard, But not distinctively: I did confent, And often did beguile her of her tears, When I did speak of some distressful stroke That my youth fuffer'd. My ftory being done, She gave me for my pains a world of fighs: She swore, in faith 'twas strange, 'twas passing strange, Twas pitiful, 'twas wondrous pitiful-She wish'd, she had not heard it ;-yet she wish'd, That heav'n had made her fuch a man :thank'd me.

And bad me, if I had a friend that lov'd her, I should but teach him how to tell my story, And that would wooe her. On this hint I spake, She lov'd me for the dangers I had past, And I lov'd her, that she did pity them: This only is the witchcraft I have us'd. Here comes the lady, let her witness it.

SCENE IX.

Enter Desdemona, Iago, and attendants.

Duke. I think, this tale would win my daughter too-Good Brabantio,

Do you perceive in all this noble company,
Where you most owe obedience?

Def. My noble father,
I do perceive here a divided duty;
To you I'm bound for life and education:
My life and education both do learn me
How to respect you. You're the lord of duty;
I'm hitherto your daughter. But here's my husband;
And so much duty as my mother shew'd
To you, preferring you before her father;
So much I challenge, that I may profess
Due to the Moor, my lord.

Bra. God be with you; I have done. Please it your Grace, on to the State-affairs; I had rather to adopt a child, than get it.

Come hither, Moor:

I here do give thee That with all my heart,
Which, but thou hast already, with all my heart
I would keep from thee. For your sake, jewel,
I'm glad at soul I have no other child;
For thy escape would teach me tyranny,
To hang clogs on them. I have done, my lord.

Duke. Let me speak like our self; and lay a sentence,

Which, as a grife, or step, may help these lovers Into your favour—

When remedies are past, the griefs are ended
By seeing the worst, which late on hopes depended.
To mourn a mischief that is past and gone,
Is the next way to draw new mischief on.
What cannot be preserv'd when Fortune takes,
Patience her injury a mockery makes. (thief;
The robb'd, that smiles, steals something from the
He robs himself, that spends a bootless grief.

Bra. So, let the Turk of Cyprus us beguile, We lose it not, so long as we can smile; He bears the sentence well, that nothing bears But the free comfort which from thence he hears;

But

But he bears both the fentence, and the forrow, That, to pay grief, must of poor patience borrow. These sentences to sugar, or to gall, Being strong on both sides, are equivocal. But words are words; I never yet did hear, That the bruis'd heart was pieced through the ear.—Besech you, now to the affairs o'th' State.

Duke. The Turk with a most mighty preparation makes for Cyprus: Othello, the fortitude of the place is best known to you. And though we have there a substitute of most allowed sufficiency: yet opinion, a sovereign mistress of effects, throws a more safe voice on you; you must therefore be content to slubber the gloss of your new fortunes, with this more stubborn and boisterous expedition.

Oth. The tyrant custom, most grave senators, Hath made the slinty and steel couch of war My thrice-driven bed of down. I do agnize A natural and prompt alacrity I find in hardness; and do undertake This present war against the Ottomites. Most humbly therefore bending to your State, I crave sit disposition for my wise, Due reference of place and exhibition; With such accommodation and befort As levels with her breeding.

Duke. Why, at her father's. Bra. I will not have it so.

Oth. Nor I.

Def. Nor would I there refide,
To put my father in impatient thoughts
By being in his eye. Most gracious Duke,
To my unfolding lend your gracious ear,
And let me find a charter in your voice
T' assist my simpleness.

Duke. What would you, Desdemona?

Def. That I did love the Moor to live with him, My down-right violence to forms, my fortunes May trumpet to the world. My heart's fubdu'd Ev'n to the very quality of my lord; I faw Othello's visage in his mind, And to his honours and his valiant parts

And I a heavy interim shall support,

Oth. Please your Grace, my Ancient;
(A man he is of honesty and trust,)
To his conveyance I assign my wife,
With what else needful your good Grace shall think
To be sent after me.

Duke. Let it be so; Good night to every one. And, noble Signior, If virtue no belighted beauty lack, Your son-in-law is far more fair than black.

Sen. Adieu, brave Moor, use Desdemona well.

Bra.

Bra. Look to her, Moor, if thou hast eyes to see. She has deceiv'd her father, and may thee.

[Exit Duke, with Senators.

Oth. My life upon her faith.—Honest Iago, My Desdemona must I leave to thee; I pr'ythee, let thy wife attend on her; And bring her after in the best advantage. Come, Desdemona, I have but an hour Of love, of worldly matter and direction To speak with thee. We must obey the time. [Exeunt.

SCENE X.

Manent Rodorigo and Iago.

Rod. lago.

Iago. What fay'st thou, noble heart?
Rod. What will I do, thinkest thou?
Iago. Why, go to bed, and sleep.

Rod. I will incontinently drown my felf.

Iago. Well, if thou doft, I shall never love thee after. Why, thou filly gentleman!

Rod. It is filliness to live, when to live is a torment; and then have we a prescription to die, when death is our physician.

Iago. O villainous! I have look'd upon the world for four times seven years, and since I could distinguish betwixt a benefit and an injury, I never found man that knew how to love himself. Ere I would say, I would drown my self for the love of a Guiney-hen, I would change my humanity with a baboon.

Rod. What should I do? I confess, it is my shame to be so fond, but it is not in my virtue to amend it.

lago. Virtue? a fig: 'tis in our felves that we are thus or thus. Our bodies are our gardens, to the which our wills are gardiners. So that if we will plant nettles, or fow lettuce; fet hysfop, and weed up thyme; supply it with one gender of herbs, or distract it with many; either have it steril with idleness, or manured with industry; why, the power and corrigible authority of this lies in our will. If the balance of our lives had not one scale of reason to posse another of sensurality, the blood and baseness of our natures would conduct us to most preposterous conclusions. But we have reason, to cool our raging motions, our carnal stings, our unbitted lusts; whereof I take this, that you call love, to be a sect, or syen.

Rod. It cannot be.

Iago. It is meerly a lust of the blood, and a permission of the will. Come, be a man: drown thy felf? drown cats and blind puppies. I have profeft me thy friend, and I confess me knit to thy deserving with cables of perdurable toughness. I could never better steed thee than now. Put money in thy purse; follow thou these wars; diffeat thy favour with an usurped beard; I say, put money in thy purse. cannot be, that Desdemona should long continue her love to the Moor-put money in thy purfe-nor he his to her. It was a violent commencement in her. and thou shalt see an answerable sequestration,-put but money in thy purse.-These Moors are changeable in their wills ;-fill thy purse with money. The food, that to him now is as luscious as loches, shall shortly be as bitter as coloquintida. When she is sated with his body, she will find the errors of her choice.—She must have change, she must: therefore put money in thy purse.- If thou wilt needs damn thy felf, do it a more delicate way than drowning. Make all the money thou canft. If fanctimony and a frail vow, betwixt an errant Barbarian and a super-subtle Venetian, benot too hard for my wits, and all the tribe of hell, thou shalt enjoy her; therefore make money. A pox of drowning thy felf! it is clean out of the way. Seek thou rather to be hang'd in compassing thy joy, than to be drown'd and go without her.

Rod. Wilt thou be fast to my hopes, if I depend on the iffue?

Iago. Thou art fure of me.—Go, make money.—I have told thee often, and I re-tell thee again and again, I hate the Moor. My cause is hearted; thine hath no less reason. Let us be conjunctive in our revenge against him. If thou canst cuckold him, thou done thy felf a pleasure, and me a sport. There are many events in the womb of time, which will be delivered.

vered. Traverse, go, provide thy money. We will have more of this to-morrow. Adieu.

Rod. Where shall we meet i' th' morning?

Iago. At my lodging.

Rod. I'll be with thee betimes.

Jago. Go to, farewel. Do you hear, Rodorigo?

Rod. What fay you?

Iago. No more of drowning, do you hear.

Rod. I am chang'd; I'll go fell all my land. [Exit.

ACT II. SCENE I.

The Capital of CYPRUS.

Enter Montano Governor of Cyprus, and Gentlemen.

Mont. WHAT from the cape can you difcern at fea?

I Gent. Nothing at all, it is a high-wrought flood; I cannot 'twixt the heaven and the main Descry a fail.

Mont. Methinks the wind hath spoke aloud at land; A fuller blast ne'er shook our battlements; If it hath russian'd so upon the sea, What ribs of oak, when mountains melt on them, Can hold the mortise? what shall we hear of this?

2 Gent. A fegregation of the Turkish fleet;
For do but stand upon the foaming shore,
The chiding billows feem to pelt the clouds;
The wind-shak'd surge, with high and monstrous main,
Seems to cast water on the burning Bear,
And quench the guards of th' ever-fired pole;
I never did like molestation view
On the enchased flood.

Mont. If that the Turkish fleet Be not inshelter'd and embay'd, they're drown'd; It is impossible to bear it out.

SCENE II.

Enter a third Gentleman.

3 Gent. News, lords, our wars are done: The desperate tempest hath so bang'd the Turks, That their designment halts. A noble ship of Venice Hath seen a grievous wreck and sufferance On most part of the sleet.

Mont. How! is this true?
3 Gent. The ship is here put in,
A Veronessa; Michael Cassio,
Lieutenant of the warlike Moor Othello,
Is come on shore; the Moor himself's at sea.

And

And is in full commission here for Cyprus.

Mont. I'm glad on't ; 'tis a worthy Governor.

3 Gent. But this same Cassio, though he speaks of comfort,

Touching the Turkish loss, yet he looks fadly, And prays the Moor be fafe; for they were parted With foul and violent tempest.

Mont. Pray heav'ns he be:

For I have ferv'd him, and the man commands Like a full foldier. Let's to the fea-fide, As well to fee the veffel that's come in, As to throw out our eyes for brave Othello, Even 'till we make the main and th' aerial blue An indiffinct regard.

Gent. Come, let's do so; For every minute is expectancy

Of more arrivance.

SCENE III.

Enter Caffio.

Cas. Thanks to the valiant of this warlike ifle, That so approve the Moor: oh! let the heav'ns Give him defence against the elements, For I have lost him on a dangerous sea.

Mont. Is he well shipp'd?

Caf. His bark is floutly timber'd, and his pilot Of very expert and approv'd allowance; Therefore my hopes, not furfeited to death, Stand in bold cure.

Within.] A fail, a fail, a fail!

Caf. What noise?

Gent. The town is empty; on the brow o'th' fea Stand ranks of people, and they cry, a fail.

Cas. My hopes do shape him for the Governor. Gent. They do discharge their shot of courtese:

Our friends, at leaft,

Caf. I pray you, Sir, go forth,

And give us truth who 'tis that is arriv'd.

Gent. I shall.

Mont. But, good lieutenant, is your general wiv'd?

Y Enter Gentleman.

How now? who has put in?

Gent. 'Tis one lago, Ancient to the General.

Caf. H'as had most favourable and happy speed;
Tempests themselves, high seas, and howling winds:
The gutter'd rocks, and congregated sands,
(Traitors ensteep'd to clog the guiltless keel;)
As having sense of beauty, do omit
Their mortal natures, letting safe go by
The divine Desdemona.

Mont. What is the?

Caf. She that I spake of, our great Captain's Captain,

Left in the conduct of the bold Iago;
Whose footing here anticipates our thoughts,
A se'nnight's speed. Great Jove, Othello guard!
And swell his fail with thine own powerful breath,
That he may bless this bay with his tall ship,
Make love's quick pants in Desdemona's arms
Give renew'd fire to our extinguish'd spirits,
And bring all Cyprus comfort—

SCENE V.

Enter Desdemona, Iago, Rodorigo, and Amilia.

O behold!

The riches of the ship is come on shore: You men of Cyprus, let her have your knees. Hail to thee, lady! and the grace of heav'n, Before, behind thee, and on every hand Enwheel thee round.

Def. I thank you, valiant Cassio;
What tidings can you tell me of my lord?
Cass. He is not yet arriv'd, nor know I aught
But that he's well, and will be shortly here.

Def. O, but I fear—how lost you company?

Caf. The great contention of the fea and skies

Parted our fellowship. But hark, a fail!

Within.] A fail, a fail!

Gent. They give this greeting to the Citadel: This likewise is a friend.

Caf. See for the news :

Good Ancient, you are welcome. Welcome, mistress; [To Æmilia.

Let it not gall your patience, good Iago, That I extend my manners. 'Tis my breeding, That gives me this bold shew of courtesse.

Jago. Sir, would she give you so much of her lips, As of her tongue she oft bestows on me,

You'd have enough.

Def. Alas! she has no speech.

Iago. In faith, too much;

I find it still, when I have list to sleep; Marry, before your ladyship, I grant, She puts her tongue a little in her heart, And chides with thinking.

Æmil. You have little cause to say so.

Iago. Come on, come on; you're pictures out of doors, Bells in your parlours, wild-cats in your kitchens, Saints in your injuries, devils being offended, Players in your housewifery, and housewives in your beds.

Def. O, fie upon thee, slanderer?

Iago. Nay, it is true, or else I am a Turk;

You rife to play, and go to bed to work. Emil. You shall not write my praise.

Iago. No, let me not.

Def. What would'st thou write of me, if thou should'st praise me?

lago. O gentle lady, do not put me to't,

For I am nothing, if not critical.

lago. I am about it; but, indeed, my invention comes from my pate, as birdlime does from freeze, it plucks out brains and all. But my muse labours, and thus she is delivered.

If she be fair and wise, fairness and wit, The one's for use, the other useth it.

Def. Well prais'd; how if she be black and witty?

lago. If she be black, and thereto have a wit, She'll find a white that shall her blackness sit.

Def. Worse and worse. Æmil. How, if fair and foolish?

Iago. She never yet was foolish, that was fair; For e'en her folly helpt her to an heir.

Def. These are old fond paradoxes, to make fools laugh i'th' alehouse. What miserable praise hast thou for her that's foul and foolish?

Iago. There's none so foul and foolish thereunto, :
But does foul pranks, which fair and wife ones do.

Def. Oh heavy ignorance! thou praisest the worst best. But what praise couldst thou bestow on a deferving woman indeed? one that, in the authority of her merit, did justly put on the vouch of very makice itself?

Iago. She that was ever fair, and never proud,

Had tongue at will, and yet was never loud;

Never lackt gold, and yet went never gay,

Fled from her wish, and yet said, now I may;

She that when anger'd, her revenge being nigh,

Bad her wrong stay, and her displeasure sy:

Bad her wrong stay, and her displeasure sty; She that in wisdom never was so frail To change the cod's head for the salmon's tail; She that could think, and ne'er disclose her mind, See suitors sollowing, and not look behind; She was a wight, (if ever such wight were)-

Def. To do what ?

Iago. To suckle fools, and chronicle small beer.

Des. O most lame and impotent conclusion! do not learn of him, Æmilia, tho' he be thy husband. How say you, Cassio, is he not a most profane and liberal counsellor?

Caf. He speaks home, Madam; you may relish him more in the foldier, than in the scholar.

Iago. [Aside.] He takes her by the palm; ay, well faid—whisper — With as little a web as this, will I ensnare as great a fly as Cassio. Ay, smile upon her, do— I will give thee in thine own courtship. You say true, 'tis so, indeed.—If such tricks as these strip you out of your lieutenancy, it had been better you had not kiss'd your three singers so oft, which now again you are most apt to play the Sir in. Very good—well kiss'd, and excellent courtesse—'tis so, indeed.—Yet again—your singers to your lips?' would, they were clister-pipes for your sake. [Trumpet. The Moor,—I know his trumpet.

Caf. 'Tis truly fo.

Def. Let's meet him, and receive him.

Caf. Lo, where he comes !

SCENE VI.

Enter Othello and Attendants.

Oth. Oh my fair warrior!
Def. My dear Othello!

Oth. It gives me wonder, great as my content, To see you here before me. O my soul's joy! If after every tempest come such calms, May the winds blow 'till they have waken'd death: And let the labouring bark climb hills of seas Olympus high; and duck again as low As hell's from heav'n! If I were now to die, 'Twere now to be most happy; for, I fear, My soul hath her content so absolute, That not another comfort like to this Succeeds in unknown fate.

Def. The heav'ns forbid,
But that our loves and comforts should encrease,
Ev'n as our days do grow!

Oth. Come, let's to the castle.

Now, friends, our wars are done; the Turks are drown'd.

How do our old acquaintance of this isle?
Honey, you shall be well desir'd in Cyprus,
I've found great love amongst them. Oh my Sweet,
I prattle out of fashion, and I dote
In mine own comfort. Pr'ythee, good Iaga,
Go to the bay, and disembark my cossers:
Bring thou the master to the citadel,
He is a good one, and his worthiness
Does challenge much respect. Come, Desdemona,
Once more well met at Cyprus.

[Excunt Othello and Desdemona.

SCENE VII.

Manent Iago and Rodorigo.

lage. Do you meet me presently at the harbour. Come thither, if thou be'st valiant; (as, they say, base men, being in love, have then a nobility in their natures, more than is native to them)——list me; the lieutenant to-night watches on the Court of Guard. First, I must tell thee this, Desdemona is directly in love with him.

Rod. With him? why, 'tis not possible?

Iago. Lay thy fingers thus; and let thy foul be infiructed. Mark me with what violence she first lov'd the Moor, but for bragging, and telling her fantastical lies. And will she love him still for prating? let not thy discreet heart think it. Her eye must be fed. And what delight shall she have to look on the Devil? when the blood is made dull with the act of sport, there should be again to instame it, and to give Satiety a fresh appetite, loveliness in favour, sympathy in years, manners, and beauties; all which the Moor is defective in. Now, for want of these requir'd conveniencies, her delicate tenderness will find itself abus'd, begin to heave the gorge, difrelish and abhor the Moor; very nature will instruct her in it, and compel her to some second choice. Now, Sir, this granted, (as it is a most pregnant and unforc'd position) who stands so eminent in the degree of this fortune, as Cassio does? a knave very voluble; no further conscionable, than in putting on the meer form of civil and humane Seeming, for the better compassing of his falt and most hidden loose affection; a flippery and fubtle knave, a finder of occasions, that has an eye can stamp and counterfeit advantages, tho' true advantage never present itself. A devilish knave! besides, the knave is handsome, young, and hath all those requisites in him, that folly and green minds look A pestilent compleat knave! and the woman hath found him already.

Rod. I cannot believe that of her, she's full of most bles'd condition.

lago. Bles'd figs' end! the wine she drinks is made of grapes. If she had been bles'd, she would never have lov'd the Moor: Bles'd pudding! didn thou not see her paddle with the palm of his hand? dids not mark that?

Rod. Yes, that I did; but that was but courtefie.

Iago. Letchery, by this hand; an index, and obficure prologue to the history of lust, and foul thoughts. They met so near with their lips, that their breaths embrac'd together. Villainous thoughts, Roderigo! when these mutualities so marshal the way, hard at hand comes the master and main exercise, the incorporate conclusion: pish——But, Sir, be you rul'd by me. I have brought you from Venice. Watch you to-night; for the command, I'll lay't upon you. Cassio knows you not: I'll not be far from you. Do you find some occasion to anger Cassio, either by speaking too loud, or tainting his discipline, or from what other course you please, which the time shall more favourably minister.

lago. Sir, he's rash, and very sudden in choler: and, happily, may strike at you. So shall you have a shorter journey to your desires, by the means I shall then have to prefer them: And the impediments most prostably removed, without which there was no expectation of our prosperity.

lago. That Caffio loves her, I do well believe: That she loves him, 'tisapt, and of great credit. The Moor, howbeit that I endure him not, Is of a constant, loving, noble nature; And, I dare think, he'll prove to Desdemona A most dear husband. Now I love her too, Not out of absolute luft, (though, peradventure, I stand accountant for as great a fin;) But partly led to diet my revenge, For that I do suspect, the lusty Moor Hath leapt into my feat. The thought whereof Doth, like a poisonous mineral, gnaw my inwards, And nothing can, or shall, content my foul, 'Till I am even'd with him, wife for wife: Or failing fo, yet that I put the Moor At last into a jealousie so strong, That judgment cannot cure. Which thing to do, If this poor brach of Venice, whom I cherish For his quick hunting, stand the putting on, I'll have our Michael Cassio on the hip, Abuse him to the Moor in the rank garb; (For I fear Caffio with my night-cap too,) Make the Moor thank me, love me, and reward me, For For making him egregiously an ass;
And practifing upon his peace and quiet,
Even to madness. 'Tis here—but yet confus'd;
Knav'ry's plain face is never seen, 'till us'd. [Exit.

SCENE IX.

The STREET.

Enter Herald with a Proclamation.

Her. It is Othello's pleasure, our noble and valiant General, that upon certain tidings now arriv'd, importing the meer perdition of the Turkish sleet, every man put himself into triumph: some to dance, some to make bonsires, each man to what sport and revels his mind leads him. For, besides this beneficial news, it is the celebration of his nuptials. So much was his pleasure, should be proclaimed. All offices are open, and there is sull liberty of feasting, from this present hour of five, till the bell have told eleven. Bless the isle of Cyprus, and our noble General Othello!

Enter Othello, Desdemona, Cassio, and Attendants. Oth. Good Michael, look you to the guard to-night, Let's teach our selves that honourable stop, Not to out-sport discretion.

Caf. Iago hath direction what to do: But, notwithstanding, with my personal eye Will I look to't.

Oth, Iago is most honest:

Michael, good-night. To-morrow, with your earliest, Let me have speech with you. Come, my dear love, The purchase made, the fruits are to ensue; That profit's yet to come 'tween me and you. Good-night. [Exeunt Othello and Desidemona.

Enter Iago.
Caf. Welcome, Iago; we must to the Watch.

lago. Not this hour, lieutenant; 'tis not yet ten o'th' clock. Our General cast us thus early for the love of his Desdemona: whom let us not therefore blame; he hath not yet made wanton the night with her; and she is sport for Jove.

lago. And when she speaks, is it not an alarum to love?

. Caf. She is, indeed, perfection.

lago. Well, happiness to their sheets: come, lieutenant, I have a stoop of wine, and here without are a brace of Cyprus gallants, that would fain have a measure to the health of the black Othello.

Caf: Not to-night, good Iago; I have very poor and unhappy brains for drinking. I could well wish, courtesie would invent some other custom of entertainment.

Iago. Oh, they are our friends; but one cup: I'll drink for you.

Caf. I have drunk but one cup to-night, and that was craftily qualified too: and, behold, what innovation it makes here. I am unfortunate in the infirmity, and dare not task my weakness with any more.

lago. What, man? 'tis a night of revels, the gallants desire it.

Caf. What are they?

Iago. Here at the door; I pray you, call them in, Caf. I'll do't, but it dislikes me. [Exit Casso.]

Iago. If I can fasten but one cup upon him, With that which he hath drunk to-night already,

He'll be as full of quarrel and offence,

As my young mistress' dog.-

Now, my fick fool, Rodorigo,

Whom love hath turn'd almost the wrong side out,

To Desdemona hath to-night carouz'd

Potations pottle deep; and he's to watch. Three lads of Cyprus, noble swelling spirits,

(That hold their honours in a wary distance,

The very elements of this warlike isle,)
Have I to-night fluster'd with flowing cups,

And they watch too. Now 'mongst this flock of drunkards,

Am I to put our Cassio in some action
That may offend the isle. But here they come.

Cas. 'Fore heav'n, they have given me a rouse already.

Caf. 'Fore heav'n, an excellent fong.

Iago. I learn'd it in England: where, indeed, they are most potent in potting. Your Dane, your German, and your swag-belly'd Hollander, ——Drink, ho!—are nothing to your English.

Caf. Is your Englishman so exquisite in his drinking? Iago. Why, he drinks you with facility your Dane dead drunk. He sweats not to overthrow your Almain. He gives your Hollander a vomit, ere the next pottle can be fill'd.

Cas. To the health of our General.

Mont. I am for it, lieutenant, and I'll do you justice.

Iago. Oh sweet England.

King Stephen was an a worthy peer, His breeches coft him but a crown; He held them fix pence all to dear, With that he call'd the tailor lown.

He was a wight of high renown,
And thou art but of low degree:
'Tis pride that pulls the country down,
Then take thine auld cloak about thee.

Some wine, ho!

Cas. Why, this is a more exquisite song than the other.

Iago. Will you hear't again?

Caf. No, for I hold him to be unworthy of his place that does those things. Well——Heaven's above all; and there be fouls that must be saved, and there be souls must not be saved.

Iago. It's true, good lieutenant.

Caf. For mine own part, (no offence to the General, nor any man of quality;) I hope to be faved.

Iago. And fo do I too, lieutenant.

Caf. Ay, but, by your leave, not before me. The Lieutenant is to be faved before the Ancient. Let's have no more of this; let's to our affairs. Forgive our fins——gentlemen, let's look to our bufinefs. Do not think, gentlemen, I am drunk: this is my Ancient; this is my right-hand, and this is my left. I am not drunk now; I can stand well enough, and I speak well enough.

Gent. Excellent well.

Caf. Why, very well then: you must not think then that I am drunk. [Exit.

SCENE XI.

Manent Iago and Montano.

Mont. To the platform, masters; come, let's set the Watch.

Iago. You fee this fellow, that is gone before; He is a foldier, fit to stand by Cæfar, And give direction. And do but fee his vice; Tis to his virtues a just equinox, The one as long as th' other. 'Tis pity of him; I fear, the Trust Othello puts in him, On some odd time of his infirmity, Will shake this island.

Mont. But is he often thus?

Iago. 'Tis evermore the prologue to his sleep. He'll watch the horologue a double set, If drink rock not his cradle.

Mont. It were well,
The General were put in mind of it:
Perhaps, he fees it not; or his good nature
Prizes the virtue that appears in Cassio,
And looks not on his evils: is not this true?

Enter Rodorigo.

Iago. How now, Rodorigo!

I pray you, after the lieutenant, go. [Exit Rod. Mont. And 'tis great pity, that the noble Moor Should hazard such a place as his own Second, With one of an ingraft infirmity; It were an honest action to say so Unto the Moor.

Iago. Not I, for this fair island;
I do love Cassio well, and would do much
To cure him of this evil. Hark, what noise?

Re-enter Cassio, pursuing Rodorigo.

Caf. You rogue! you rascal!

Mont. What's the matter, lieutenant?

Cas. A knave teach me my duty! I'll beat the knave into a twiggen bottle.

Rod. Beat me-

Cas. Dost thou prate, rogue?

Mont. Nay, good lieutenant; [Staying him.

I pray you, Sir, hold your hand.

Nay, good lieutenant—Alas, gentlemen—
Help, ho!—Lieutenant—Sir—Montano—
Help, mafters! here's a goodly watch, indeed—
Who's that, who rings the bell—diablo, ho!

The town will rife. Fie, fie, lieutenant! hold: You will be sham'd for ever.

SCENE XII.

Enter Othello, and Attendants.

Oth. What is the matter here?

Mont. I bleed still, I am hurt, but not to th' death.

Oth. Hold, for your lives.

Iago. Hold, ho! lieutenant —Sir — Montano —

Gentlemen-

Have you forgot all sense of place and duty?

The General speaks to you—hold, hold, for shame.—

Oth. Why, how now, ho? from whence ariseth this?

Are we turn'd Turks? and to our felves do That, Which heaven hath forbid the Ottomites? For christian shame, put by this barbarous brawl; He, that stirs next to carve for his own rage, Holds his soul light; he dies upon his motion. Silence that dreadful bell; it frights the isle From her propriety. What is the matter? Honest Iago, that looks dead with grieving, Speak, who began this? on thy love, I charge thee.

Iago. I do not know; friends all, but now, even now,

In quarter, and in terms like bride and groom
Divesting them for bed; and then, but now———
(As if some planet had unwitted men,)
Swords out, and tilting one at other's breasts,
In opposition bloody. I can't speak
Any beginning to this peevish odds,
And 'would, in action glorious I had lost
Those legs that brought me to a part of it!

Oth. How comes it, Michael, you are thus forgot? Cas. I pray you, pardon me, I cannot speak.

Oth. Worthy Montano, you were wont be civil: The gravity and stillness of your youth The world hath noted; and your name is great In mouths of wisest censure. What's the matter, That you unlace your reputation thus, And spend your rich opinion, for the name Of a night-brawler? give me answer to it.

Mont. Worthy Othello, I am hurt to danger;

Your officer, lago, can inform you,

While

While I spare speech, which something now offends me, Of all that I do know; nor know I aught By me that's said or done amiss this night, Unless self-charity be sometimes a vice, And to defend our selves it be a sin, When violence assails us.

Oth. Now, by heav'n,
My blood begins my fafer guides to rule;
And passion, having my best judgment choler'd,
Assays to lead the way. If I once stir,
Or do but lift this arm, the best of you
Shall sink in my rebuke. Give me to know
How this foul rout began; who set it on;
And he, that is approv'd in this offence,
Tho' he had twinn'd with me both at a birth,
Shall lose me.—What, in a town of war,
Yet wild, the people's hearts brim-full of fear,
To manage private and domestick quarrel?
In night, and on the Court and Guard of safety;
'Tis monstrous. Say, Ingo, who began't?

Mont. If partially affin'd, or leagu'd in office, Thou dost deliver more or less than truth,

Thou art no foldier.

Iago. Touch me not fo near: I'd rather have this tongue cut from my mouth, Than it should do offence to Michael Cassio: Yet I perfuade my felf, to speak the truth, Shall nothing wrong him. Thus 'tis, General: Montano and my felf being in speech, There comes a fellow crying out for help, And Caffio following with determin'd fword, To execute upon him. Sir, this Gentleman Steps in to Caffio, and intreats his pause; My felf the crying fellow did pursue, Left by his clamour (as it so fell out) The town might fall in fright. He, swift of foot, Out-ran my purpose: I return'd, the rather For that I heard the clink and fall of fwords, And Cassio high in oath; which 'till to-night I ne'er might fay before. When I came back, (For this was brief) I found them close together, At blow and thrust; even as again they were, When Who Mo But The As Yet Fro

More of this matter cannot I report.
But men are men; the best fometimes forget;
Tho' Cassio did some little wrong to him,
As men in rage strike those that wish them best.
Yet, surely, Cassio, I believe, receiv'd
From him, that sled, some strange indignity,
Which patience could not pass.

Oth. I know, Iago,
Thy honesty and love doth mince this matter,
Making it light to Cassio. Cassio, I love thee,
But never more be officer of mine.

Enter Desdemona attended. Look, if my gentle love be not rais'd up: I'll make thee an example.

Def. What's the matter?

Oth. All is well, Sweeting, come, away to bed. Sir, for your hurts, my felf will be your furgeon. Lead him off.

Iago, look with care about the town, And silence those whom this vile brawl distracted. Come, Desdemona, 'tis the soldier's life, To have their balmy sumbers wak'd with strife.

[Exeunt.

SCENE XIII.

Manent Iago and Cassio.

Iago. What, are you hurt, lieutenant? Cas. Past all Surgery.

Lago. Marry, heav'n forbid!

Caf. Reputation, reputation, reputation! oh I have lost my reputation! I have lost the immortal part of my felf, and what remains is bestial. My reputation!

Iago. As I am an honest man, I had thought, you had received some bodily wound; there is more sense in That than in Reputation. Reputation is an idle, and most false, imposition; oft got without merit, and lost without deserving. You have lost no reputation at all, unless you repute your felf such a loser. What, man,—there are ways to recover the General again.

You are but now cast in his mood, a punishment more in policy than in malice; even so as one would beat his offenceless dog, to affright an imperious lion. Sue to him again, and he's yours.

Caf. I will rather fue to be despis'd, than to deceive fo good a commander, with flight fo drunken, and so indiscreet, an officer. Drunk? and speak Parrot? and squabble? swagger? swear? and discourse suffian with one's own shadow? oh thou invisible spirit of wine! if thou hast no name to be known by, let us call thee devil.

Iago. What was he that you follow'd with your fword? what had he done to you?

Caf. I know not. Iago. Is't possible?

Caf. I remember a mass of things, but nothing distinctly: a quarrel, but nothing wherefore. Oh, that men should put an enemy in their mouths, to steal away their brains! that we should with joy, pleasance, revel, and applause, transform our selves into beasts.

Iago. Why, but you are now well enough: how came you thus recover'd?

Caf. It has pleas'd the devil, drunkenness, to give place to the devil, wrath; one unperfectness shews me another, to make me frankly despise my self.

Iago. Come, you are too fevere a moraler. As the time, the place, and the condition of this country stands, I could heartily wish this had not befallen: but fince it is as it is, mend it for your own good.

Iago. Come, come, good wine is a good familiar creature, if it be well us'd: exclaim no more against it. And, good lieutenant, I think, you think, I love you.

Caf. I have well approv'd it, Sir. I drunk!

Iago. You, or any man living, may be drunk at fome time, man. I tell you what you shall do: our General's General's wife is now the General. I may fay so, in this respect, for that he hath devoted and given up himself to the contemplation, mark and denotement of her parts and graces. Confess your self freely to her: importune her help, to put you in your Place again. She is of so free, so kind, so apt, so blessed a disposition, she holds it a vice in her goodness not to do more than she is requested. This broken joint, between you and her husband, intreat her to splinter. And, my fortunes against any lay worth naming, this crack of your love shall grow stronger than it was before.

Caf. You advise me well.

Iago. I protest, in the fincerity of love, and honest kindness.

Cas. I think it freely; and betimes in the morning I will befee he the virtuous Desdemona to undertake for me: I am desperate of my fortunes, if they check me here.

Iago. You are in the right: good night, lieutenant, I must to the Watch.

Caf. Good night, honest Iago.

SCENE XIV.

Manet Iago.

Iago. And what's he then, that fays, I play the vil-When this advice is free I give, and honest, (lain? Likely to thinking, and, indeed, the course To win the Moor again. For 'tis most easie Th' inclining Desdemona to subdue In any honest fuit; she's fram'd as fruitful As the free elements. And then for her To win the Moor, were't to renounce his baptism, All feals and fymbols of redeemed fin, His foul is fo enfetter'd to her love, That she may make, unmake, do what she list, Even as her appetite shall play the God With his weak function. Am I then a villain, To counfel Caffio to this parallel courfe, Directly to his Good? Divinity of Hell! When Devils will their blackest fins put on, They do fuggest at first with heav'nly Shews,

As I do now.—For while this honest fool
Plies Desdemona to repair his fortune,
And she for him pleads strongly to the Moor,
I'll pour this pestilence into his ear,
That she repeals him for her body's lust:
And by how much she strives to do him good,
She shall undo her credit with the Moor.
So will I turn her virtue into Pitch;
And out of her own goodness make the net,
That shall enmesh them all. How now, Rodorigo!

SCENE XV.

Enter Rodorigo.

Rod. I do follow here in the chace, not like a hound that hunts, but one that fills up the cry. My money is almost spent: I have been to-night exceedingly well cudgelled; and, I think, the issue will be, I shall have so much experience for my pains; and so with no money at all, and a little more wit, return again to Venice.

Iago. How poor are they, that have not patience? What wound did ever heal but by degrees? Thou know'st, we work by wit, and not by witchcraft; And wit depends on dilatory time:

Does't not go well? Casso hath beaten thee,
And thou by that small hurt hast cashier'd Casso.

Tho' other things grow fair against the Sun, Yet fruits, that blossom first, will first be ripe: Content thy self a-while. In troth, 'tis morning: Pleasure and action make the hours seem short. Retire thee; go where thou art billetted:

Away, I say; thou shalt know more hereafter: Nay, get thee gone. [Exit Rodorigo.

Two things are to be done;

My Wife must move for Caffio to her mistress :

I'll fet her on :---

My felf, the while, to draw the Moor apart, And bring him jump, when he may Caffio find Solliciting his Wife,—ay, that's the way: Dull not, Device, by coldness and delay. So Enter Cassio, with Musicians.

Caffio. MASTERS, play here, I will content your pains,

Mus. How, Sir, how?

Clown. Are these, I pray you, wind-instruments?

Mus. Ay, marry, are they, Sir. Clown. Oh, thereby hangs a tail. Mus. Whereby hangs a tale, Sir?

Clown. Marry, Sir, by many a wind-inftrument that I know. But, Masters, here's money for you: and the General so likes your Musick, that he defires you for love's sake to make no more noise with it.

Muf. Well, Sir, we will not.

Clown. If you have any musick that may not be heard, to't again: But, as they say, to hear musick, the General does not greatly care.

Mus. We have none such, Sir.

Clown. Then put up your pipes in your bag, and hye away. Go, vanish into air, away.

[Exeunt Musicians.

Caf. Dost thou hear, mine honest friend?

Clown. No, I hear not your honest friend; I hear you.

Cas. Pr'ythee, keep up thy quillets, there's a poor piece of gold for thee: if the gentlewoman, that attends the General's wife, be flirring, tell her, there's one Cassio entreats of her a little favour of speech. Wilt thou do this?

Clown. She is stirring, Sir; if she will stir hither, I shall seem to notifie unto her. [Exit Clown.

Caf. Do, my good friend.

To him, enter Iago.

In happy time, Iago.

Iago. You have not been a-bed then?

Caf. Why, no; the day had broke, before we parted.

I have made bold to fend in to your wife My fuit is, that she will to Desdemona Procure me some access.

Iago. I'll fend her prefently;

And I'll devise a mean to draw the Moor
Out of the way, that your converse and business
May be more free.

Caf. I humbly thank you for't. I never knew

A Florentine more kind and honest.

To bim, enter Æmilia.

Emil. Good morrow, good lieutenant, I am forry For your displeasure; but all will, sure, be well. The General and his wife are talking of it: And she speaks for you stoutly. The Moor replies, That he, you hurt, is of great same in Cyprus, And great affinity; and that in wisdom (you; He might not but refuse you. But he protests, he loves And needs no other suitor, but his likings, To bring you in again.

Cas. Yet I befeech you,
If you think fit, or that it may be done,
Give me advantage of some brief discourse

With Desdemona alone.

Æmil. Pray you, come in;

I will bestow you where you shall have time

To speak your bosom freely.

Def. Oh, that's an honest fellow; doubt not, Cassio, But I will have my lord and you again
As friendly as you were.

Cas. Most bounteous Madam, Whatever shall become of Michael Cassio, He's never any thing but your true servant.

Def. I know't, I thank you: you do love my lord, You've known him long; and, be you well assur'd, He shall in strangeness stand no farther off Than in a politick distance.

Caf. Ay, but, lady,
That policy may either last so long,
Or feed upon such nice and waterish diet,
Or breed itself so out of circumstances,
That I being absent, and my place supply'd,
My General will forget my love and service.

Def. Do not doubt that; before Æmilia here, I give thee warrant of thy Place. Assure thee, If I do vow a friendship, I'll perform it To the last article. My lord shall never rest; I'll watch him tame, and talk him out of patience; His bed shall seem a school, his board a shrift; I'll intermingle every thing he does With Cassio's suit: therefore be merry, Cassio; For thy sollicitor shall rather die, Than give thy cause away.

SCENE IV.

Enter Othello, and Iago, at distance.

Madam, here comes my lord.

Æmil. Madam, here comes my lord. Cas. Madam, I'll take my leave.

Def. Why, stay, and hear me speak.

Caf. Madam, not now; I'm very ill at ease,

Unfit for mine own purposes.

Def. Well, do your discretion. [Exit Cassio.

Iago. Hah! I like not that—

Oth. What dost thou fay?

Iago. Nothing, my lord; or if—I know not what. Oth. Was not that Cassio, parted from my wise? Iago. Cassio, my lord?—no, sure, I cannot think it.

That he would steal away so guilty-like,

Seeing you coming.

Oth. I believe, 'twas he. Def. How now, my lord?

I have been talking with a fuitor here, A man that languishes in your displeasure.

Oth. Who is't you mean?

Def. Why, your lieutenant Cassio. Good my lord, If I have any grace, or power to move you,

His present reconciliation make.

For if he be not one that truly loves you,
That errs in ignorance, and not in cunning,
I have no judgment in an honest face.

I pr'ythee, call him back.

Oth. Went he hence now? Def. I, footh, so humbled,

That he hath left part of his grief with me, To fuffer with him. Good love, call him back.

Oth. Not now, fweet Desdemona; some other time,

Def. But shall't be shortly?

Oth. The fooner, Sweet, for you. Def. Shall't be to-night at supper?

Oth. Not to-night.

Def. To-morrow dinner then? Oth. I shall not dine at home:

I meet the captains at the citadel.

Def.. Why then to-morrow night, or Tuesday morn, Or Tuesday noon, or night, or Wednesday morn, I pr'ythee, name the time; but let it not Exceed three days; in faith, he's penitent: And yet his trespass, in our common reason, (Save that, they say, the wars must make examples Out of their best,) is not almost a fault

Thou dost mean something: I heard thee say but now, thou lik'dst not that,——When Casso left my wife. What did'st not like? And when I told thee, he was of my counsel, In my whole course of wooing; thou cry'dst, indeed? And did'st contract and purse thy brow together, As if thou then hadst shut up in thy brain Some horrible conceit: if thou dost love me, Shew me thy thought.

Iago. My lord, you know, I love you.

Oth. I think, thou dost:

And for I know, thou art full of love and honesty, And weigh'st thy words before thou giv'st them breath, Therefore these stops of thine fright me the more. For such things, in a false disloyal knave, Are tricks of custom; but, in a man that's just, They're cold dilations working from the heart,

That passion cannot rule. lago. For Michael Cassio,

I dare be fworn, I think, that he is honest.

Oth. I think fo too.

Iago. Men should be what they feem.

Or, those that be not, would they might seem knaves!

Oth. Certain, men should be what they seem.

Oth. Nay, yet there's more in this:

I pray thee, speak to me as to thy thinkings, As thou dost ruminate; and give thy worst of thoughts The worst of words.

Oth. This fellow's of exceeding honesty, And knows all qualities, with a learned spirit, Of human dealings. If I prove her haggard, Tho' that her jesses were my dear heart-strings, I'd whiftle her off, and let her down the wind To prey at fortune. Haply, for I'm black, And have not those fost parts of conversation That chamberers have; or, for I am declin'd Into the vale of years, ---- yet that's not much-She's gone, I am abus'd, and my relief Must be to loath her. Oh the curse of marriage! That we can call these delicate creatures ours, And not their appetites! I had rather be a toad, And live upon the vapour of a dungeon, Than keep a corner in the thing I love, For others' use. Yet 'tis the plague of Great ones; Prerogativ'd are they less than the base; 'Tis destiny unshunnable, like death. Even then, this forked plague is fated to us, When we do quicken. Desdemona comes!

Enter Desdemona and Æmilia. If the be false, oh, then heav'n mocks itself: I'll not believe't.

Def. How now, my dear Othello? Your dinner, and the generous Islanders, By you invited, do attend your presence.

Oth. I am to blame.

Def. Why do you speak so faintly?

Are you not well?

Oth. I have a pain upon my forehead here.

Def. Why, that's with watching, 'twill away again; Let me but bind it hard, within this hour It will be well.

Oth. Your napkin is too little;

Let it alone: come, I'll go in with you.

Def. I am very forry, that you are not well.

[Exeunt.

SCENE VII.

Manet Æmilia.

Æmil. I am glad, I have found this napkin; This was her first remembrance from the Moor; My wayward husband hath a hundred times Woo'd me to steal it. But she so loves the token, (For he conjur'd her, she should ever keep it) That she reserves it evermore about her, To kiss and talk to. I'll have the work ta'en out, And give't Iago; what he'll do with it, Heav'n knows, not I, I nothing, but to please his fantasie.

Enter lago.

Ingo. How now? what do you here alone?

Æmil. Do not you chide; I have a thing for you.

Ingo. You have a thing for me?

It is a common thing—

Æmil. Ha?

Iago. To have a foolish wife.

Æmil. Oh, is that all? what will you give me now

For that same handkerchief?

Iago. What handkerchief? - Emil. What handkerchief?-

Why, That the Moor first gave to Desdemona; That which so often you did bid me steal.

Iago. Haft stolen it from her ?

C. 3.

Amil.

Æmil. No; but she let it drop by negligence; And, to th' advantage, I, being here, took't up: Look, here 'tis.

Iago. A good wench, give it me.

Æmil. What will you do with't, you have been for earnest

To have me filch it?

Iago. Why, what is that to you? [Snatching it. Æmil. If 't be not for some purpose of import, Give't me again. Poor Lady! she'll run mad, When she shall lack it.

Iago. Be not you known on't:

I have use for it. Go, leave me— [Exit Æmilia. I will in Cassio's lodging lose this napkin,
And let him find it. Trifles light as air
Are, to the jealous, confirmations strong
As proofs of holy Writ. This may do something.
The Moor already changes with my poisons:
Dang'rous conceits are in their nature poisons,
Which at the first are scarce sound to distaste;
But, with a little act upon the blood,
Burn like the mines of sulphur.——I did say so.

SCENE VIII.

Enter Othello.

Look, where he comes! Not Poppy, nor Mandragora, Nor all the drowfy Syrups of the world, Shall ever medicine thee to that fweet Sleep, Which thou owedst yesterday.

Oth. Ha! false to me!

Iago. Why, how now, General? no more of that, Oth. Avant! be gone! thou'st fet me on the rack: I fwear, 'tis better to be much abus'd, Than but to know a little.

Iago. How, my lord?

Oth. What sense had I of her stol'n hours of lust?

I saw't not, thought it not, it harm'd not me;

I slept the next night well; was free, and merry;

I found not Cassio's kisses on her lips:

He, that is robb'd, not wanting what is stol'n,

Let him not know't, and he's not robb'd at all.

Let us be wary, let us hide our loves!
And then, Sir, would he gripe, and wring my hand;
Cry—Oh sweet creature! and then kiss me hard,
As if he pluck't up kisses by the roots,
That grew upon my lips; then lay his leg
Over my thigh, and sigh and kiss, and then
Cry, Cursed fate! that gave thee to the Moor.

Oth. Oh monstrous! monstrous! Iago. Nay, this was but his dream.

Oth. But this denoted a fore-gone conclusion.

Iago. 'Tis a shrewd doubt, tho' it be but a dream. And this may help to thicken other proofs, That do demonstrate thinly.

Oth. I'll tear her all to pieces.

Iago. Nay, but be wise; yet we see nothing done; She may be honest yet.——Tell me but this, Have you not sometimes seen a handkerchief, Spotted with strawberries in your wise's hand?

Oth. I gave her fuch a one; 'twas my first gift. Iago. I know not that; but such a handkerchief, (I'm sure, it was your wife's,) did I to-day See Cassio wipe his beard with.

Oth. If it be that—

Iago. If it be that, or any, if 'twas hers, It speaks against her with the other proofs.

Oth. Oh, that the flave had forty thousand lives!
One is too poor, too weak for my Revenge.
Now do I fee 'tis time.——Look here, Iago,
All my fond love thus do I blow to heav'n:

To wrong'd Othello's service. Let him command,
And to obey shall be in me. Remord
What bloody business ever.

Not with vain thanks, but with acceptance bounteous, And will upon the instant put thee to't:

Within these three days let me hear thee say,

That Coffio's not alive.

lago. My friend is dead; 'Tis done at your request. But, let her live.

Oth. Damn her, lewd Minx! oh, damn her, damn her!

Come, go with me apart; I will withdraw
To furnish me with some swift means of death
For the fair Devil. Now art thou my Lieutenant.—

Iago. I am your own for ever.

Another Apartment in the Palace.

Enter Desdemona, Æmilia, and Clown.

Def. Do you know, firrah, where Lieutenant Caffio lies?

Clown. I dare not fay, he lies any where.

Def. Why, man?

Clown. He's a foldier; and for me to fay, a foldier lies, 'tis stabbing.

Def. Where should Hofe that handkerchief, Emilia?

Æmil. I know not, Madam.

Def. Believe me, I had rather have loft my purse Full of Cruzadoes. And but my noble Moor Is true of mind, and made of no fuch baseness. As jealous creatures are, it were enough To put him to ill thinking.

Emil. Is he not jealous?

Def. Who, he? I think, the Sun, where he was born, Drew all fuch humours from him.

Hath founded his good fortunes on your love; Shar'd dangers with you.

Def. Infooth, you are to blame.

Oth. Away! [Exit Othello.

SCENE XI.

Manent Desdemona and Æmilia.

Æmil. Is not this man jealous? Def. I ne'er faw this before.

Sure, there's some wonder in this handkerchief:

I'm most unhappy in the loss of it.

Æmil. 'Tis not a year, or two, shews us a man: They are all but stomachs, and we all but food; They eat us hungerly, and, when they're full, They belch us. Look you! Caffio, and my husband. Enter Iago and Cassio.

lago. There is no other way, 'tis she must do't; And lo, the happiness! go and importune her.

Def. How now, good Caffio, what's the news with

Cas. Madam, my former suit. I do beseech you, That by your virtuous means I may again Exist.

Exist, and be a member of his love;
Whom I, with all the office of my heart,
Intirely honour. I would not be delay'd;
If my offence be of such mortal kind,
That not my service past, nor present forrows,
Nor purpos'd merit in futurity,
Can ransom me into his love again;
But to know so, must be my benefit.
So shall I cloath me in a forc'd content;
And shut my self up in some other course,
To fortune's alms.

Def. Alas! thrice-gentle Casso,
My advocation is not now in tune;
My lord is not my lord; nor should I know him;
Were he in favour, as in humour, altered.
So help me every spirit sanctified,
As I have spoken for you all my best;
And stood within the blank of his displeasure,
For my free speech! You must a while be patient;
What I can do, I will: and more I will
Than for my self I dare. Let That suffice you.

Iago. Is my lord angry?

And, certainly, in strange unquietness.

Iago. Can he be angry? I have feen the Cannon, When it hath blown his ranks into the air, And, like the Devil, from his very arm Puft his own brother; and can he be angry? Something of moment then; I will go meet him; There's matter in't indeed, if he be angry. [Exit.]

SCENE XII.

Manent Desdemona, Emilia, and Casso.

Def. I pr'ythee, do so.—Something, sure, of State, Either from Venice, or some unhatch'd practice, Made here demonstrable in Cyprus to him, Hath puddled his clear spirit; and, in such cases, Men's natures wrangle with inferior things, Tho' great ones are their object. Nor jealous toy concerning you.

Def. Alas-the-day, I never gave him cause.

Æmil. But jealous souls will not be answer'd so;
They are not ever jealous for a cause;
But jealous, for they're jealous. It's a monster
Begot upon itself, born on itself.

Def. Heav'n keep that monster from Othello's mind!

Æmil. Lady, amen.

Def. I will go feek him. Cassio, walk hereabout; If I do find him fit, I'll move your suit, And feek t'effect it to my uttermost.

Changes to the Street before the Palace.

Re-enter Cassio, meeting Bianca.

Bian. Save you, friend Cassie.

Cass. What makes you from home?

How is it with you, my most fair Bianca?

Indeed, sweet Love, I was coming to your house.

Bian. And I was going to your lodging, Cassio.
What? keep a week away? seven days and nights?
Eightscore eight hours? and lovers' absent hours,

Bian. Oh, Cassio, whence came this?
This is some token from a newer friend:
Of thy selt absence now I feel a cause:
Is't come to this? well, well.

Caf. Go to, woman:

Throw your vile guesses in the Devil's teeth, From whence you have them. You are jealous now, That this is from some mistress, some remembrance? No, in good troth, Bianca.

Bian. Why, whose is it?

Cas. I know not neither; I found it in my chamber; I like the work well; ere it be demanded, As like enough it will, I'd have it copied: Take it, and do't, and leave me for this time.

Bian. Leave you? wherefore?

Caf. I do attend here on the General, And think it no addition, nor my wish, To have him see me woman'd.

Bian. Why, I pray you? Caf. Not that I love you not.

Bian. But that you do not love me; I pray you, bring me on the way a little; And fay, if I shall see you soon at night?

Caf. 'Tis but a little way that I can bring you,

For I attend here. But I'll fee you foon.

Bian. 'Tis very good; I must be circumstanc'd.

(A passion most unsuiting such a man,)
Cassio came hither. I shifted him away,
And laid good 'scuses on your ecstasy;

The which he promis'd. Do but encave your self,
And mark the sleers, the jibes, and notable scorns,
That dwell in every region of his sace.
For I will make him tell the tale anew;

Or I shall say, you are all in all in spleen,

And nothing of a man.

Oth. Dost thou hear, Iago?

I will be found most cunning in my patience;
But, dost thou hear, most bloody?

lago. That's not amis;

But yet keep time in all. Will you withdraw?

Now will I question Casso of Bianca,
A huswife, that, by selling her desires,
Buys her self bread and cloth. It is a creature,
That dotes on Casso; as 'tis the strumpet's plague
To beguile many, and be beguil'd by one;
He, when he hears of her, cannot refrain
From the excess of laughter—here he comes—

SCENE III.

Enter Cassio.

As he shall smile, Othello shall go mad;
And his unbookish jealousy must construe
Poor Cossio's smiles, gestures, and light behaviour,
Quite in the wrong. How do you now, lieutenant?
Cass. The worser, that you give me the addition,
Whose want even kills me.

Iago. Ply Desdemona well, and you are sure on't:

Do you intend it?

Cas. Ha, ha, ha!

Oth. Do you triumph, Rogue? do you triumph?

Caf. I marry her!—What? a customer? pr'ythee, bear some charity to my wit, do not think it so unwholsome. Ha, ha, ha!

Oth. So, fo: they laugh that win. [afide.

Caf. Pr'ythee, fay true.

lago. I am a very villain else.

Oth. Have you scor'd me? well. [aside.

Caf. This is the monkey's own giving out: she is perswaded, I will marry her, out of her own love and flattery, not out of my promise.

Oth. Iago beckons me: now he begins the story.

Def. Upon my knee, what doth your speech import? I understand a fury in your words, But not your words.

Oth. Why? what art thou?

Def. Your wife, my lord ; your true and loyal wife.

Oth. Come, swear it; damn thy self; lest, being like one

Of heav'n, the devils themselves should fear to seize thee.

Therefore be double-damn'd; fwear, thou art honest.

Def. Heaven doth truly know it.

Oth. Heav'n truly knows, That thou art false as hell.

And his unkindness may defeat my life,
But never taint my love. I can't say, whore;
It does abhor me, now I speak the word;

Rod. I do not find, that thou deal'st justly with me:

Rod. Every day thou doft'st me with some device, Ingo; and rather, as it seems to me now, keep'st from me all conveniency, than suppliest me with the least advantage of hope. I will, indeed, no longer endure it. Nor am I yet persuaded to put up in peace what already I have soolishly suffer'd.

Rod. I tell you, 'tis not very well. I will make my felf known to Defdemona: If she will return me my jewels, I will give over my suit, and repent my unlawful sollicitation: if not, assure your self, I will seek satisfaction of you.

Iago. Why, now, I fee there's mettle in thee; and even from this instant do I build on thee a better opinion than ever before. Give me thy hand, Rodorigo, thou hast taken against me a most just exception; but, I protest, I have dealt most directly in thy affair.

Rod. It hath not appear'd.

Iago. I grant, indeed, it hath not appear'd; and your suspicion is not without wit and judgment. But, Rodorigo, if thou hast That in thee indeed, which I have greater reason to believe now than ever, (I mean, purpose, courage, and valour) this night shew it. If thou the next night following enjoy not Desdemona, take me from this world with treachery, and devise engines for my life.

Rod. Well; what is it? is it within reason and compass ?

Iago. Sir, there is especial Commission come from Venice to depute Cassio in Otbello's place.

D 4

Rod. Is that true? why, then Othello and Desdemona return again to Venice.

lago. Oh, no; he goes into Mauritania, and taketh away with him the fair Desdemona, unless his abode be lingered here by some accident: Wherein none can be so determinate, as the removing of Cassio.

Rod. How do you mean removing him?

lago. Why, by making him incapable of Othello's Place; knocking out his brains.

Rod. And that you would have me to do?

Iago. Ay, if you dare do your felf a profit and a right. He sups to-night with a harlot; and thither will I go to him. He knows not yet of his honourable fortune; if you will watch his going thence, (which I will fashion to fall out between twelve and one) you may take him at your pleasure. I will be near to second your attempt, and he shall fall between us. Come, stand not amaz'd at it, but go along with me; I will shew you such a necessity in his death, that you shall think your felf bound to put it on him. It is now high supper-time; and the night grows to waste. About it.

Rod. I will hear further reason for this.

Iago. And you shall be satisfied.

Æmil. Nor I neither, by this heav'nly light:

Æmil. The world's a huge thing,

It is a great price, for a small vice.

Def. In troth, I think, thou would'ft not.

Amil. Introth, I think, I should; and undo't, when I had done. Marry, I would not do such a thing for a joint-ring, nor for measures of lawn, nor for gowns, petticoats, nor caps, nor any petty exhibition. But for all the whole world; why who would not make her husband a cuckold, to make him a monarch? I should venture purgatory for't.

Def. Beshrew me, if I would do such a wrong

For the whole world.

Æmil. Why, the wrong is but a wrong i' th' world; and having the world for your labour, 'tis a wrong in your own world, and you might quickly make it right.

Iago. HERE, stand behind this bulk. Straight will he come:
Wear thy good rapier bare, and put it home;

Quick, quick, fear nothing; I'll be at thy elbow. It makes us, or it marrs us: Think on That, And fix most firm thy resolution.

Rod. Be near at hand, I may miscarry in't.

And he grows angry. Now, whether he kill Cassio, Or Cassio him, or each do kill the other, Every way makes my gain. Live Rodorigo, He calls me to a restitution large

Of gold and jewels, that I bob'd from him,

As gifts to Desdemona.

It must not be.——If Cassio do remain,

He hath a daily beauty in his life,

That makes me ugly; and, besides, the Moor May unfold me to him; there stand I in peril:

No, he must die. Be it so; I hear him coming. Enter Cassio.

Rod. I know his gait; 'tis he: villain, thou dyest.

[He runs at Cassio, and wounds him.

Caf. That thrust had been mine enemy indeed, But that my coat is better than thou know'st: I will make proof of thine.

Rod. Oh, I am flain.

Caf. I'm maim'd for ever; help, hoa! murther, murther!

SCENE II.

Enter Othello above at a window.

Oth. The voice of Caffio, - lago keeps his word.

Rod. Oh, villain that I am!

Oth. It is even fo.

Caf. Oh, help, ho! light! a furgeon!-

Oth. 'Tis he! oh brave Iago, honest and just,
That hast such noble sense of thy friend's wrong;
Thou teachest me—Minion, your Dear lies dead;
And your fate hyes apace.—Strumpet, I come:
From off my heart, those charms, thine eyes, are blotted:
Thy bed, lust-stain'd, shall with lust's blood be spotted.

Enter Lodovico and Gratiano, at a diffance.

Caf. What, ho! no watch? no passage? murther, murther!

Gra. 'Tis some mischance; the voice is very direful.

Caf. Oh help!

Lod. Hark!

Rod. Oh wretched villain!

Lod. Two or three groans. It is a heavy night; These may be counterfeits: let's think't unsafe To come into the cry, without more help.

Rod. No body come? then shall I bleed to death.

Enter Iago, in his shirt, with a Light and Sword.

Lod. Hark-

Gra. Here's one comes in his shirt with light and weapons.

Iago. Who's there? whose noise is this, that cries out murther?

Lod. We do not know.

Iago. Do not you hear a cry?

Caf. Here, here: for heav'n's fake, help me.

Iago. What's the matter?

Gra. This is Othello's Ancient, as I take it.

Lod. The same, indeed, a very valiant fellow. Iago. What are you here, that cry so grievously?

Caf. Iago? oh I'm spoil'd, undone by villains!

Give me some help.

Iago. Oh me, lieutenant! what villains have done this? Cas. I think, that one of them is hereabout;

And cannot make away.

Iago. Oh treacherous villains!

What are you there? come in, and give some help.
[To Lod. and Gra.

Rod. Oh, help me there. Caf. That's one of them.

Iago. Oh murth'rous flave! oh villain!

. [Iago stabs him.

Rod. Oh damn'd lago! oh inhuman dog!

Lago, Kill men i'th' dark? where be these bloody

How filent is this town? ho, murther! murther! What may you be? are you of good or evil?

Lod. As you shall prove us, praise us.

Iago. Signior Lodovico?

Lod. He, Sir.

Iago. I cry you mercy! here's Cassio, hurt by villains.

Gra. Caffio?

Iago. How is't, brother? Gaf. My leg is cut in two. Iago. Marry, heav'n forbid!

Light, gentlemen, I'll bind it with my shirt.

SCENE IV.

Enter Bianca.

Bian. What is the matter, hoa, who is't that cry'd?

lago. Who is't that cry'd? Bian. Oh my dear Gassio,

My fweet Caffio, oh Caffio, Caffio, Caffio,

Iago. O notable strumpet! Casso, may you suspect Who they should be, that have thus mangled you? Cas. No.

Gra. I'm forry to find you thus ::

I have been to feek you.

Iago. Lend me a garter. So-Oh for a chair

To bear him easily hence.

Bian. Alas, he faints. Oh Caffio, Cassio, Cassio!

lago. Gentlemen all, I do suspect this Trash

To be a party in this Injury.

Patience a while, good Cassio; come, come: Lend me a Light: know we this face, or no? Alas, my friend, and my dear countryman Rodorigo? no: Yes, fure: yea, 'tis Rodorigo. Gra. What, of Venice?

Lago. Even he, Sir : did you know him?

. Gra. Know him? ah!

Iago. Signior Gratiano? I cry your gentle pardon: These bloody accidents must excuse my manners, That so neglected you.

Gra. I am glad to fee you.

Stay you, good gentlemen. Look you pale, mistres? Do you perceive the gastness of her eye? [To Bianca, Nay, if you stare, we shall hear more anon. Behold her well; I pray you, look upon her; Do you see, gentlemen? nay, guiltiness Will speak, though tongues were out of use.

SCENE V.

Enter Æmilia.

Æmil. Alas, what is the matter?

What is the matter, husband?

Iago. Cassio hath there been set on in the dark

By Rodorigo, and fellows that are 'scap'd: He's almost slain, and Rodorigo dead.

Go know of Caffio where he fupt to night.

What, do you shake at that?

Bian. He supt at my house, but I therefore shake not.

Iago. Oh, did he so? I charge you go with me.

Æmil. Oh fie upon thee, strumpet!

Bian. I am no strumpet, but of life as honest As you that thus abuse me.

Æmil. As I? fie upon thee!

Iago. Kind gentlemen, let's fee poor Cassio drest, Come, mistress, you must tell's another tale.

Æmilia, run you to the citadel,

And tell my lord and lady what hath hap'd: Will you go on afore? — This is the night,

That either makes me, or foredoes me quite.

Exeunt, Iago following. SCENE

SCENE VI.

A Bed-chamber : Desdemona is discovered asseep in her Bed.

Enter Othello, with a Light and a Sword.

Lays down the faword.

Yet she must die; else she'll betray more men.

Put out the light, and then — Put out the light?—

If I quench thee, thou slaming minister,
I can again thy former light restore,
Should I repent: but once put out thy light,
Thou cunning'st pattern of excelling nature,
I know not where is that Promethean heat,
That can thy light re-lumine.—[Sets down the taper.

When I have pluck'd thy rose,

I cannot give it vital growth again;
It needs must wither.—I'll smell thee on the tree;

Oh balmy breath, that dost almost perswade

Justice to break her sword! ——One more; one more;

Be thus when thou art dead, and I will kill thee,
And love thee after.—One more, that's the last;
So fweet, was ne'er so fatal! I must weep,
But they are cruel tears: this Sorrow's heav'nly;
It strikes, where it doth love.—She wakes—

Def. Who's there? Othello?

Oth. Ay, Desdemona.

Def. Will you come to bed, my Lord? Oth. Have you pray'd to night, Desdemona?

Def. Ay, my Lord.

Oth. If you bethink your felf of any crime Unreconcil'd as yet to heav'n and grace, Sollicit for it straight.

Oth. Ay, I do.

Def. Then heav'n have mercy on me !

Oth. Amen, with all my heart.

Def. If you fay fo, I hope, you will not kill me.

Oth. Hum.

Def. And yet I fear you: for you're fatal then, When your eyes rowl fo. Why I should fear, I know not.

Since guilt I know not: yet, I feel, I fear.

Oth. Think on thy fins.

Def. They're Loves I bear to you. Oth. Ay, and for That thou dy'ft.

Def. That death's unnatural, that kills for loving.

Alas, why gnaw you so your nether lip?
Some bloody passion shakes your very frame;
These are portents: but yet I hope, I hope,
They do not point on me.

Oth. Peace, and be fill.

Def. I will fo : what's the matter?

Oth. That handkerchief

Which I folov'd, and gave thee, thou gav'ft Caffio.

Def. No, by my life and foul: fend for the man, And ask him.

Oth. Sweet Soul, take heed, take heed of perjury;

Thou art on thy death-bed.

Def. Ay, but not yet to die.

Oth. Presently;

Therefore confess thee freely of thy sin: For to deny each article with oath,

Cannot remove, nor choak, the strong conception That I do groan withal. Thou art to die.

Def. Oh, heav'n have mercy on me!

Oth. I fay, amen.

Def. And have you mercy too!——I never did Offend you in my life; never lov'd Cassio, But with such general warranty of heav'n, As I might love. I never gave him token.

Oth:

Oth. By heav'n, I faw my handkerchief in's hand. Oh perjur'd woman! thou dost stone my heart; And mak'st me call, what I intend to do, A murther, which I thought a facrifice.

I faw the handkerchief.

Def. He found it then ;

I never gave it him; fend for him hither,

Let him confess a truth.

Oth. He hath confest. Def. What, my lord?

Oth. That he hath—us'd thee—

Def. How ? unlawfully ?

Oth. Ay.

Def. He will not fay fo.

Oth. No, his mouth is stopp'd; Honest Iago hath ta'en order for't.

Def. My fear interprets then—What, is he dead?
Oth. Had all his hairs been lives, my great revenge

Had flomach for them all.

Def. Alas, he is betray'd, and I undone.

Oth. Out, strumpet! weep'st thou for him to my face?

Def. Oh banish me, my Lord, but kill me not:

Oth. Down, strumpet.

Def. Kill me to morrow, let me live to-night.

Oth. Nay, if you strive-

Def. But half an hour.

Oth. Being done, there is no pause.

Def. But while I say one prayer.

Oth. It is too late. [He smothers her.

SCENE VII.

Æmilia, at the door.

Æmil. My lord, my lord! what hoa! my lord, my lord!

Oth. What noise is this? not dead? not yet quite dead?

I that am cruel, am yet merciful;

I would not have thee linger in thy pain. So, fo.

Æmil. within.] What hoa! my Lord, my Lord!

Oth. Who's there?

Emil. Oh, my good Lord, I would speak a word with you.

Oth. Yes, 'tis Amilia—by and by—she's dead.
'Tis like, she comes to speak of Cassio's death;
The noise was high.—Ha, no more moving?
Still as the Grave. Shall she come in? were't good?
I think, she stirs again—No—what's the best?
If she come in, she'll, sure, speak to my wife;
My wife! my wife! what wife? I have no wife.
Oh insupportable! oh heavy hour!
Methinks, it should be now a huge eclipse
Of Sun, and Moon, and that th' affrighted globe
Should yawn at alteration—

Æmil. I befeech you,

That I may speak with you. Oh, good my lord— Oth. I had forgot thee; oh, come in, Æmilia. Sost, by and by, let me the curtains draw. Where art thou? what's the matter with thee now? [Unlocks the door.

Enter Æmilia.

Æmil. Oh, my good lord, yonder's foul murther Oth. What? now? (done.

Æmil. But now, my Lord.

Oth. It is the very error of the Moon; She comes more near the Earth than she was wont, And makes men mad.

Æmil. Cassio, my lord, hath kill'd A young Venetian, call'd Rodorigo.

Oth. Rodorigo kill'd? and Caffio kill'd?

Æmil. No, Caffio is not kill'd.

Oth. Not Cassio kill'd? then murther's out of tune, And sweet revenge grows harsh.

Def. Oh, falsely, falsely murther'd!-

Æmil. Alas! what cry is that?

Oth. That? what?

Æmil. Out, and alas! that was my lady's voice. Help! help, hoa! help! oh lady, speak again; Sweet Desdemona! oh sweet mistress, speak.

Def. A guiltless death I die.

Æmil. Oh, who hath done this deed? Def. No body, I my felf, farewel;

Commend me to my kind Lord; oh, farewel. [Dies. Oth. Why, how should she be murther'd?

Æmil. Alas! who knows?

Oth. You heard her fay, herself, it was not I. Æmil. She said so, I must needs report the truth.

Oth. She's like a lyar gone to burning hell;

Twas I, that kill'd her.

Emil. Oh, the more Angel she, and you the blacker Devil.

Oth. She turn'd to folly, and she was a whore.

Æmil. Thou dost bely her, and thou art a Devil.

Oth. She was false as water.

Emil. Thou art rash as fire, to say

That she was false. Oh, she was heav'nly true. Oth. Cassio did top her; ask thy husband else.

Oh, I were damn'd beneath all depth in hell, But that I did proceed upon just grounds

To this extremity. Thy husband knew it all.

Oth. Thy husband!

Æmil. That the was falle to wedlock?

Oth. Ay, with Gassie: had she been true,
If heav'n would make me such another World,

Of one entire and perfect Chrysolite,

I'd not have fold her for it.

Æmil. My husband!

Oth. Ay, 'twas he that told me first:

An honest man he is, and hates the slime

That sticks on filthy deeds.

Amil. My husband!

Oth. What needs this iteration, woman?

I fay, thy husband.

Amil. Oh mistress! villainy has made mocks with

My husband fay, she was false!

Oth. He, woman;

I fay, thy husband; do'ft understand the word?

My friend, thy husband, honest, honest lago.

SCENE VIII

Enter Montano, Gratiano, Iago, and others.

Mon. What is the matter? how now, General?

Æmil. Oh, are you come, Iago? you have done well,

That men must lay their murthers on your neck.

Gra. What is the matter?

Æmil. Disprove this villain, if thou be'st a man; He says, thou toldst him that his wife was false: I know, thou didst not; thou'rt not such a villain. Speak, for my heart is full.

Iago. I told him what I thought; and told no more,

Than what he found himself was apt and true.

Amil. But did you ever tell him, she was false?

Æmil. You told a lye; an odious, damned, lye:

Upon my foul, a lye: a wicked lye.

She false with Cassio? did you fay, with Cassio?

Iago. With Caffio, mistress; go to, charm your tongue.

Æmil. I will not charm my tongue; I'm bound to fpeak;

My mistress lies here murther'd in her bed.

All. Oh heavens forefend!

Æmil. And your reports have fet the murther on,

Oth. Nay, stare not, masters; it is true, indeed.

Gra. 'Tis a strange truth.
Mon. Oh monstrous act!

Æmil. Villainy! villainy! villainy!

I think upon't-I think-I fmell't-Oh villainy ! I thought so then; I'll kill my self for grief; Oh villainy, villainy!

lago. What, are you mad? I charge you, get you

Emil. Good gentlemen, let me have leave to fpeak;

'Tis proper I obey him, but not now: Perchance, Iago, I will ne'er go home.

Oth. Oh! oh! oh! [Othello falls on the bed.

Æmil. Nay, lay thee down and roar: For thou hast kill'd the sweetest Innocent,

That e'er did lift up eye.

Oth. Oh, the was foul! Rising. I scarce did know you, Uncle; there lies your Niece, Whose breath, indeed, these hands have newly stop'd; I know, this act shews horrible and grim.

Gra. Poor Desdemona! I'm glad thy father's dead: Thy match was mortal to him; and pure grief Shore his old thread in twain. Did he live now. This fight would make him do a desp'rate turn; Yea, curse his better Angel from his side,

And fall to reprobation.

Oth. 'Tis pitiful; but yet lago knows, That she with Caffio had the act of shame A thousand times committed. Cassio confest it; And she did gratify his amorous works, With that recognizance and pledge of love Which I first gave her; I saw it in his hand; It was an handkerchief, an antique token My father gave my mother.

Æmil. Oh heav'n! oh heav'nly Powers!

Iago. Come, hold your peace.

Æmil. 'Twill out, 'twill out-I, peace! No, I will speak as liberal as the air; Let heav'n, and men, and devils, let them all,

All, all cry shame against me, yet I'll speak.

Iago. Be wife, and get you home.

Iago breaks through and wounds his wife, then

Oth. Are there no stones in heav'n?

For what then ferves the thunder? precious villain!

Gra. The woman falls; sure he has kill'd his wife.

Æmil. Ay, ay; oh, lay me by my mistress' side. Gra. He's gone, but his wife's kill'd.

Mon. 'Tis a notorious villain; take this weapon, Which I have here recover'd from the Moor: Come, guard the door without, let him not pass, But kill him rather; I'll after that same villain, For'tis a damned slave. [Exeunt Mon. and Gra.

SCENE IX.

Oth. I am not valiant neither; But every puny whipster gets my sword. But why should honour out-live honesty? Let it go all.

Æmil. What did thy Song boad, lady?
Hark, can'ft thou hear me? I will play the fwan,
And die in musick; Willow, Willow, Willow
Moor, she was chaste; she lov'd thee, cruel Moor;

Gra. within.] If thou attempt it, it will cost thee dear;

Thou hast no weapon, and perforce must suffer.

Oth. Look in upon me then, and speak with me,

Or, naked as I am, I will assault thee.

Re-enter Gratiano.

Gra. What is the matter? Oth. Lo! I have a weapon: A better never did itself sustain Upon a foldier's thigh. I've feen the day, That with this little arm, and this good fword, I've made my way through more impediments, Than twenty times your stop. But, oh vain boast! Who can controul his fate? 'tis not fo now. Be not afraid, tho' you do fee me weapon'd; Here is my journey's end, here is my Butt, The very fea-mark of my utmost fail. Do you go back difmay'd? SCENE X.

Enter Lodovico, Cassio led in wounded, Montano, and Iago prisoner, with Officers.

Lod. Where is this rash and most unfortunate man?

Oth. Oh villain!

Caf. Most heathenish and most gross!

Lod. Now, here's another discontented paper, Found in his pocket too; and this, it seems, Rodorigo meant t'have sent this damned villain; But that, belike, Iago in the interim Came in and satisfy'd him.

And Cassio rules in Cyprus. For this slave,
If there be any cunning cruelty,
That can torment him much, and hold him long,
It shall be his. You shall close prisoner rest,
'Till that the nature of your fault be known
To the Venetian State. Come, bring him away.

Oth. Soft you; a word or two, before you go.
I've done the State some service, and they know't;
No more of that. I pray you, in your letters,
When you shall these unlucky deeds relate,
Speak of me as I am: Nothing extenuate,
Nor set down aught in malice. Then must you

Of one that lov'd not wifely, but too well;
Of one, not easily jealous: but, being wrought,
Perplex'd in the extream; of one, whose hand,
Like the base Judian, threw a pearl away

Albeit unused to the melting mood,
Drop tears as fast as the Arabian trees
Their medicinal gum. Set you down this:
And say besides, that in Aleppo once,
Where a malignant and a turban'd Turk
Beat a Venetian, and traduc'd the State,
I took by th' throat the circumcised dog,

And smote him thus.
